Tributes to popular Karl, 19

TRIBUTES have been paid to a "pleasant and sincere" teenager who was killed in a motorbike collision.

Karl Langley, 19, died when his motorcycle, a blue Honda 125R, was in collision with a blue Ford Focus on the A1123, Hill Row Causeway, Haddenham, at around 6.50pm last Thursday.

Mr Langley, of Cromwell Road, Sutton, was pronounced dead at the scene. The driver of the Ford, a 49-year-old man from Witchford, was uninjured.

Mr Langley was a student at Witchford Village College (WVC) from 2007 to 2008. He then left to join Cottenham Village College (CVC) where he studied for five years.

JORDAN DAY
@JordanDayCN

Steve Ellison, head at CVC, said the school was "shocked and saddened" to hear of Mr Langley's death.

He said: "Karl was a student here until the completion of his GCSE exams in the summer of 2013.

"I remember him as a likeable person who had a ready smile. His head of year, Carl Goodey, describes Karl as being a pleasant and sincere young man.

"Our thoughts are with Karl's family and friends at this tragic time."

A spokeswoman for WVC said: "Karl was a pleasant and popular student and staff at the college were very sad to hear of this tragic accident.

"Our thoughts and condolences are with his family at this very difficult time."

Pc Ian Masters, who is investigating the incident, is urging anyone who witnessed the collision, or who has any information, to call police on 101.

Her book, The Bletchley Girls, looks into the scale of the work undertaken at Bletchley Park during the Second World War. The talk, organised by Toppings Books, is at the Old Palace on Wednesday, February 4 at 7.30pm. Tickets are £6. Call (01353) 645005.

NEWS IN BRIEF

M&S store set to open

A MARKS and Spencer food store is opening in Littleport.

The M&S Simply Food shop – and a Wild Bean Cafe – are set to open at the BP service station in Wisbech Road, similar to the one just a couple of miles away in Witchford Road, Ely.

Plans for new signage to be erected at the station have been submitted to the district council.

DOG ATTACK

Mum's plea after girl bitten by dog

JORDAN DAY
JordanDayCN

A MUM is appealing to dog owners to be more responsible after her young daughter was bitten in Ely High Street.

Mum-of-four Louise Ruddock says owners need to be more cautious when tying their dogs up outside shops or in busy places like town centres.

Her daughter, Mia, 5, was bitten by a collie-type dog that was tied up with another dog outside Burrows Newsagents in Ely on Saturday.

Louise, who lives with her family off Norfolk Road, Ely, said: "We were walking down the High Street and Mia was a little way in front of us.

"As we got past the Lamb Hotel, near Burrows Newsagents, I heard a dog barking and I saw Mia leap back clutching her hand.

"I shouted at her to move back but the dog continued to go for her. There were two dogs – a collie and a terrier-type dog, which was also barking madly.

"I rushed over to her and asked

BITTEN: Mia was bitten by a Collie-type dog in Ely High Street

if the dog had bitten her; she nodded and started to cry. I looked at her hand and her finger was bleeding."

Louise, who works at Sainsbury's in Ely, said: "A woman, who I believe was the owner of the dogs, came out of the newsagents. She asked if one of the dogs had bitten my daughter.

"I told her it had. I was bending over tending to Mia as she was crying hysterically. In hindsight, I wish I had asked the woman more questions. The woman just walked off with the dogs and I was too busy calming Mia down."

Louise, who says she would not be reporting the incident to police, says people whose dogs are not 100 per cent safe with children should be either left at home or muzzled in public places.

She said: "This is not me being anti-dogs. I am in fact a dog lover. My parents have two dogs and my children, including Mia, run around the garden with them and cuddle up to them. But I have told Mia that not all dogs are nice to little people and that she should never just wander up to a dog in the street.

"This attack was totally unprovoked and thankfully the bite wasn't very bad, although it did take the top of her fingernail off. But the reality is that it could have been worse.

"My plea is for owners who are not 100 per cent sure that their dogs are safe around children to either leave them at home or muzzle them out in public."

NEWS IN BRIEF

New homes approved

CONTENTIOUS plans to build 14 new homes in Soham have been approved.

Surrey-based firm Willowcharm Ltd applied for planning permission to build four two-bedroom houses, eight three-bedroom houses and two four-bedroom houses on land at the rear of 48-64, Station Road, and to create a new access off Guntons Close, last June. Despite objections from residents, the scheme has now been approved by the district council.

Two-day beer festival at The Maltings, Ely

REAL ale lovers will be in their element in Ely this weekend.

The annual Elysian Winter Beer Festival is being held at The Maltings, in Ship Lane, on Friday, January 30 and Saturday, January 31.

The event, now in its sixth year, is organised by Ely CAMRA.

Doors will be open from 10.30am-10pm on Friday and from 11am-8pm on Saturday. Admission is £1 or free for CAMRA members.

Car catches fire in Littleport

A CAR caught fire in Littleport on Monday.

Firefighters were called to the incident in Woodfen Road just before 4pm.

A Cambridgeshire Fire and Rescue Service spokeswoman said: "Firefighters arrived to find a car on fire and extinguished it using a hose reel. They returned to their station by 5pm.

"The cause of the fire was accidental."

Police officer charged with theft

A POLICE officer has appeared in court charged with three offences – including two of theft.

Detective Constable Matt Bailey, 50, who is based at Ely police station, is charged with two counts of theft and an offence under the Data Protection Act.

He appeared at Boston Magistrates Court last Thursday.

No pleas were entered and the case was adjourned for Bailey to appear back at the courthouse in Boston on March 5.

He was released on conditional bail.

COURT

'Rodent infestation' at Jet garage

THE manager of a service station near Ely is to face trial after environmental health officers claim they found signs of a rodent infestation at the premises.

Rozina Hafiz, of Saunders Close, Huntingdon, appeared before magistrates in Cambridge on Thursday, charged with selling food unsafe for human consumption.

She was also charged with 14 additional counts in her capacity as director of Rozina Ltd, the leaseholder for the Jet service station in Ely Road, Witcham Toll.

Representing East Cambridgeshire District Council, Solicitor Maggie Camp detailed inspections of the service station on December 18, 2013 and February 3, 2014, when inspectors claim they found extensive evidence of food items contaminated by mice.

Hafiz appeared before the bench without legal representation, and pleaded not guilty to all charges.

She was advised to seek legal advice before returning to court to face what were described as "very serious charges".

Hafiz will appear again before magistrates on February 19.

Stardom again for Laurie, 24

GLAMOROUS lorry driver Laurie Bartram is starring in Channel 4's eagerly-anticipated new series of Shipping Wars UK.

Former Ely College student, Laurie, 24, from Littleport, is no stranger when it comes to appearing on TV as she was the one of the UK's youngest women to get her Class 1 HGV licence, aged just 20.

Laurie now runs her own haulage firm, LRB Logistics Ltd, and is passionate about encouraging more women and young people to pursue lorry driving careers.

Shipping Wars follows UK transporters while they deliver "gob-smacking and sometimes seemingly unshippable loads". The new series airs on Monday, February 2 at 4pm.

Former chaplain admits making indecent photos

RAYMOND BROWN
@RaymondBrownCN

A FORMER Cambridgeshire police chaplain has admitted making and possessing indecent images of children.

The Reverend Stephen Talbot, 63, spoke only to confirm his name and enter a plea during the brief hearing at Cambridge Crown Court on Monday.

He stood in the dock in a blue suit and tie to admit one charge of making 14 indecent images of children ranging from category A to C.

Talbot, formerly of Main Street, Little Downham, but now of Downham Market, Norfolk, also admitted possessing four category C indecent images of children.

GUILTY PLEA: Stephen Talbot

Talbot was based at Cambridgeshire police HQ but left his role as police chaplain on October 1 and was arrested on the same day.

Det Supt Gary Ridgway, head of the force's Public Protection Unit, said: "Some images found on Talbot's computer were at the highest level and his deliberate act to destroy further evidence means we will never know the true extent of his offending.

"Safeguarding the most vulnerable in society is our priority, so making sure we stop those responsible for this type of crime, no matter who they are, is imperative.

"There has been an enormous breach of trust to those Talbot counselled in his role as a chaplain to the force and I welcome the guilty pleas."

Talbot, who was granted conditional bail, will be sentenced on February 16.

WARNING

Wood burner fire sparks a warning

A FIRE started in a house after cloth materials were left too close to a wood burner.

Firefighters from Ely and Chatteris were called to the blaze in Brick Lane, Mepal, at around 3.35pm on Friday.

The cause of the fire was confirmed as accidental and watch commander Mark Coupar is urging residents who own wood burners to be cautious.

He said: "We would urge residents with log burners to ensure they use them correctly. Make sure they are fitted according to the instructions and always keep the area around them free from other materials."

Getting to grips with the weather

THE Great British weather was the focus of learning for little ones from Downham Feoffees Primary School in Little Downham.

Year 3 pupils visited Burwell House on Monday to see the centre's new automatic weather station, donated by local company Delta-T, and all the data collected since its installation. They also made a 'windicator stick' to help measure the strength of the wind and used other equipment to measure temperature and cloud cover. In the afternoon they went into the centre's TV studio, where they recorded weather forecasts for the area.

Burwell House is owned by the county council and offers residential and day courses.Visit www.burwellhouse.com.

WASTE COLLECTION

Apology after rubbish thrown on man's garden

JORDAN DAY

JordanDayCN

COUNCIL chiefs have apologised after a refuse collector was spotted hurling a sack full of rubbish onto an elderly man's front garden, spilling rubbish across the grass.

Dave White, waste services team leader at East Cambridgeshire District Council, says the incident in Little Downham was "clearly unacceptable behaviour".

Lucy Goodfellow, of Cannon Street, was horrified by what she saw happen at her elderly uncle's home, in the same street, and contacted Ely News.

She said: "My mum and I were sitting in my car waiting for my uncle when the green recycling bin lorry came along.

"We sat and watched as one of the bin men threw the black bin bag which was on top of the recycling bin onto my uncle's front grass.

"The bin bag split open and all the rubbish spilt out onto his front garden. The bin man left it there and ran up the road to catch up with the bin lorry.

"We were appalled at his behaviour as there is enough rubbish scattered around the village without him leaving that there.

"This particular bin man obviously doesn't take much pride in his job or he wouldn't have behaved in this way – disgusting."

Mr White said: "We apologise for what is clearly unacceptable behaviour from the individual involved. Crews are instructed to remove bags from the top of bins and place them next to the bin – clearly this failed to happen in this case.

"We have spoken to the contractors Veolia and reiterated what is expected of them as they deliver the waste and recycling service on behalf of the council.

"Since moving to a wheeled bin recycling service, we have seen an increase in the positive feedback we have had but events like this reiterate that we cannot be complacent.

"Should anyone witness or experience incidents such as this we would ask them to get in touch so we can arrange for it to be cleared up."

Anglian Water 'sorry' for disruption

ANGLIAN Water (AW) has apologised to motorists who were caught up in delays as a result of sewage works being carried out at Ely's underpass at the weekend.

Ely News* reported in advance that the A142 would be partially shut at the crossing from Friday through to Monday, and has been contacted by numerous drivers angry about the "chaos" the work caused.

Both the underpass and the crossing will be fully closed from Friday, January 30 through to Monday, February 2. The closure is to allow a £400,000 sewer replacement scheme to be completed.

Emma Staples, from AW, said: "We do recognise that this work will cause some disruption to the area and we're sorry for this."

Coffee and cake to help the homeless

A COFFEE morning in Ely has raised almost £300 to help support people who are homeless in London.

Reg and Jessie Hutchinson, from Ely, organised the event at the city's Methodist Church on Saturday to raise funds for the Whitechapel Mission.

Reg used to be a volunteer for the charity, which provides meals, emotional and practical support to men and women who are homeless in the capital's East End.

A total of £291 was raised and the couple said they wanted to thank everyone who supported the event.

To find out how you can support the mission, visit www.whitechapel.org.uk.

HISTORIC FINDS

Historic key is being sold at auction

AN eighteenth century key believed to fit the lock of a chapel in the Ely area is going under the hammer.

As reported last summer, the key was discovered in a loft in Littleport and the person who came across it took it to local businessman Roy Adams, who owns Cliabhrach Treasure antique shop in Granby Street, Littleport.

Over the last six months, Mr Adams, local television auctioneer David Palmer and other specialists have been trying to find out more about the key and the chapel to which it would have belonged.

The key, which has a GER and an Ely stamp, was found inside a 1939 tea transportation box with a letter dated 1790. It is being sold at auction next Thursday, February 5.

AUCTIONEER: David Palmer

Mr Adams said: "The response to the story about the key in the Ely News has been quite overwhelming but despite hundreds of people from across the region coming forward, we still don't know what lock the key fits.

"The key and the letter found with it are going to be sold at auction with a reserve price of £200.

"We'll continue to work with whoever buys it to try and find which chapel the key belonged to – it's certainly a special buy."

They will be sold at The Brook in Soham at 6pm at what is the first in a new monthly programme of auctions Mr Adams is launching. Mr Palmer will be the auctioneer.

For information, call Mr Adams on 07876 170934.

CAMPAIGN

Petition set up for safe crossing

A PETITION has been launched calling for a pedestrian crossing to be built in one of Ely's busiest roads.

Local resident Brian Hendrich and City of Ely Cllr Alison Whelan are campaigning to get a pelican crossing built in Lynn Road – between the roundabout with Cam Drive and the junction with Kings Avenue.

Liberal Democrat Cllr Whelan, who lives in Kings Avenue, said: "There has been a significant increase in traffic on Lynn Road and we need a pedestrian crossing before there is a tragedy.

"The developments planned to happen over the next few years will only make the need to cross this road increase.

"There are many children who need to cross the road either to catch buses to school, or to make their way to Ely College. Many parents and children also attempt to cross this road to get to Ely St Mary's and Spring Meadow schools.

JORDAN DAY
JordanDayCN

"When the new school is built to the north of Cam Drive, the need to ensure there are adequate crossing points will increase further.

"The risk to pedestrians attempting to cross these roads is already serious, and will only get worse over the coming years as further development happens."

Among those who have signed the petition is Ely resident Janet Selby. She said: "My kids cross this road everyday to get to Ely College. There have been several accidents already in the last few years at the junction of Lynn Road/Kings Avenue.

"Last year I heard the sickening sound of lorry breaks being heavily applied and a lorry lurching to a halt. Luckily enough the child was not hurt.

"Traffic is very heavy at peak times. We really need some kind of traffic calming measures and safe crossings, and they are way overdue."

Leah Clayton-Brock, also from Ely, said: "I have to cross the junction at Kings Avenue that joins Lynn Road with two young children. We have to look for traffic coming from three different ways.

"Crossing is so difficult – when there is a gap we have to run for it. This is not teaching my children the correct way to cross a road.

"The traffic is very heavy in the mornings with lorries, tractors, vans and cars. No one would stand a chance if they were hit by a lorry or tractor.

"Please help us safe a life. We can't wait until we hear the sad news of a life lost."

Good idea but...

REGARDING Ely hospital eases pressure on A&E: THIS is a good idea, it is a great shame that both the Princess of Wales and the Newmarket General Hospital were scaled down.

In the call to visit the Princess of Wales in emergency people should be aware of all that is not available.

Let me tell you of my experience.

I fell from my bike and a friend kindly took me in a car to Soham medical centre to get me checked over. It was painful to drag my left leg into the car with the pain in my hip. At the centre a wheelchair got me to the doctor's room and I clambered round the furniture to get onto the bed.

After some prodding the doctor suggested it could be a hairline fracture so decided to send me to the Princess of Wales.

So my daughter had to be contacted to provide the transport, another painful entry into the car. At Ely another wheelchair took me into the hospital and after a wait I was told they had no facilities to X-Ray hips, and said I was to go to Addenbrooke's A&E.

I thought that would not be a problem, but they said have you got anyone to take you. I said have you not got an ambulance and they said no, if we ordered one it could take six hours.

As my daughter had two children to look after we had to ring my son from his work to come and take me to Addenbrooke's – another painful entry into another car.

My hip was fractured and I was told afterwards I should have waited for an ambulance to come and they would have taken me to A&E.

Yes it is a good idea to take the pressure off A&E but facilities need to be put in place to cope with more than they can at the moment and have an ambulance on standby if people attending need to be transferred.

Open to all?

THE church is supposed to be for everybody, and the various exhibitions should bring in a lot of local people.
The reason they don't is shown really well with the current exhibition of embroidery at the cathedral; its £8 odd just to walk in.
In this age of financial restraint the church should be showing a moral lead, and price it so that local people can afford to be part of it.
Ely is extensively advertised abroad and until recently was still showing buildings which were demolished in an unprecedented act of vandalism some 40 years ago.
This has been criticised by American visitors who still expect to see a city unspoilt by modernisers.

Pity the cyclist

WHILE it's totally unacceptable for cyclists to behave in a pig ignorant selfish manner, surely more could be done to make things safer?
The law states that cyclists should use the road unless a specific cycle path is provided.
The motorist is protected by a reinforced box of metal, a seatbelt and air bags. What protection does the cyclist have from the motorist? A helmet will not protect the rest of the body.
The roads are in a deplorable state, riddled with potholes and lumpy patches. The yellow lines are so high; they are a hazard in themselves.
Some drain covers are so low; they could have you off your bike.
Many motorists are clearly not paying any attention to the road/traffic/surroundings ahead. Choosing to text on their mobiles, talk on their mobiles or failing to clear their icy windows thoroughly.
Some hoot, rev their engines or cut you up. Those in parked cars don't always check in their mirrors before opening the door in front of you, or suddenly pulling out in front of you.
I think many people think of the cyclist as an object rather than another human, who just wants to take a healthier form of transport from A to B.
Surely more could be done to increase the number of dual purpose cycle/pedestrian paths. Wouldn't it be good to get more people out of their cars and onto their bikes?

Pass the dictionary

OOPS! Two incorrectly spelt signs have been spotted in Ely.

The signs, which have the 'u' missing in the word 'unauthorised', were spotted by an eagle-eyed reader in the car park at Ely's former magistrates' court, in Lynn Road.

Ely's Mayor, Lis Every, said: "The signs must have been there for years and I've certainly never spotted the error.

"It wasn't the city council who put them up, I imagine it was Her Majesty's Court Service.

"The signs are actually going to be removed and replaced soon anyway as part of the refurbishment of the courthouse so we'll make sure the spelling is correct on the new ones!"

Take care here

I WOULD like to draw attention to a possibly hazardous walkway, namely the newly resurfaced area alongside Palace Green in front of the cathedral.
There is no barrier between the wide strip of deep gravel and the paving slabs which run parallel alongside.
I know of two separate incidents recently of a person falling badly on this pavement due to skidding on gravel that is spilling over and onto the slabs.
This is a much used walkway and there may well be other similar incidents of which I'm not aware. As the condition is getting worse further injuries are likely.
Could this not have been foreseen before the surface was laid? If the situation cannot be rectified I feel that pedestrians must be made aware of the risk of falling.

Sad news

IT saddened me to read in yesterday's Ely News about the removal of the horses on Dean's Meadow.
Over a very long period of time, and as a joyful activity, I brought bags of carrotts twice weekly to the animals, which resulted soon in what one may call friendship and understanding.
I was, of course, not alone in what I was doing: Many Ely people and also visitors felt attracted to the horses on the meadow, and many a photograph was taken of the Cathedral with the horses in the foreground.
Last year, when two white mares produced a foal each, this soon became a great attraction to children and adults alike.
I was also surprised to read in your article that people had been bitten by the horses on the meadow. This I find hard to accept and can only surmise that those who fed horses were unaccustomed of the right way to do this: namely offer the treat on a stretched out FLAT hand.
The eager animal, keen to get what is offered, may just have nipped a finger or two, but certainly would not have intentionally bitten them.
The Dean's Meadow has a long established history in the lives of Ely Cathedral and its people and I know many like myself who much regret what is planned. I can't but wonder what sort of "regeneration and maintenance" is in store for it.

Way off track

WHAT is going on with Ely Railway station these days? The ticket booths in the front office are rarely open and the solution is a tatty temporary desk held together by masking tape along with ticket machines which are usually broken. If anyone ever bothers to turn up to sell tickets (rarely encountered at peak times) then people are often issued with the wrong ones meaning an embarrassing encounter with a conductor later on the train.
Staff are demotivated and there is a general air of degradation and lack of customer care. Complaints to the management are ignored and the only advice staff give, if they can be found, is to write to your MP.
A couple of years ago there was a survey of passengers asking what improvements they wanted at the station. Lots of promises and high sounding intentions. Good access came high up the list but we are still squeezing through the same narrow doorway as ever, trying to allow people to come the other way at the same time, bikes and all.
Presumably whoever has responsibility for managing the station signed some kind of service contract? They are surely taking money under false pretences.

Dear MP...

AN open letter to Sir James Paice MP:
I DOUBT I am the first constituent to write to you about Ely railway station. I was moved to complain to the Station Supervisor when inconvenienced again last week; the supervisor's office contained no (discernible) supervisor, but there were two 'revenue protection' staff and several others relaxing in there – a level of manning in stark contrast to the closed ticket booth and broken machines in the ticket hall.
I asked them how I might usefully complain (ie communicate in a way that might induce the operating company to listen). They said "write to your MP as management doesn't take any notice of anything else" albeit also giving me a 'customer communication form'.
Hence why I am writing to you, copied to Abellio, in lieu of filling in their form.
The station has not moved with the times and the buildings are now inadequate to the task and the vastly increased numbers of users – but the current operator is not only doing nothing to manage these inadequacies, they are failing to maintain even the levels of service that they profess (are required?) to offer.
Of the two manned ticket windows, only one appears to be regularly manned and there have been/are significant periods when none are open at all. This appears to me to have been the state of affairs for much of 2014 and into 2015.
There are three different types of machine in the ticket hall, all with different user interfaces and limitations – for example not all will sell off-peak tickets outside the off peak period, rendering some useless for journeys on the first off-peak train of the day.

But one has to know this, in order to avoid waiting in the wrong queue. One machine has been malfunctioning or broken for months. On the day I was moved to complain (January 19), only one machine was in operation and only one booth was manned.
At peak times, the company sometimes brings in mobile ticket sales staff. They are not well versed in their task (they get only a single week of training, I was told by one last week), are slower than the booth staff and are known to sell the wrong tickets – despite describing my route in detail, I was sold the wrong ticket in December and forced to pay a supplement later in my journey. They also further clutter up an already, in my view hazardously, crowded ticket hall.
Inconvenience and poor service aside, I believe the current access arrangements to the station to be dangerously inadequate.
All 1,976,134* annual entries and exits to the station are made through the same narrow Victorian front door and across/through the small ticket hall, which is usually criss-crossed with several queues of would be ticket purchasers. This includes a large number of cycle users and all luggage, prams etc. At peak teams, when trains are fully loaded, this can be mayhem, particularly in wet weather when the floor becomes wet and slippery.
As there are no 'revenue protection' measures at Ely, I see no reason at all why (permanently locked) side gate entry points at the north and south ends of the station building cannot be left open for passenger use, with cycle users directed in that direction. This would do a little to alleviate the suffering of would-be ticket purchasers in the hall but would at least mean that they are less likely to be buffeted by passing bikes, prams and suitcases!
But instead of spending a little money on common-sense measures to improve access and safety, Abellio decided to spend over £150,000 on cladding the station underpass in shiny metal panels. (see http://www.abelliogreateranglia.co.uk/about-us/latest-news/news-articles/improvement-work-underway-at-ely-rail-station-subway)
True, the underpass was unsightly but it worked! Now is is smarter but a little narrower (actually about 0.4m narrower), so one could argue not only was this operationally unnecessary but has actually reduced the circulation space available.
This brings me onto my last and most serious point.
In my opinion, in the event of a serious incident or accident in the station, such as a terrorist attack, at peak use times the station may not be able to be evacuated quickly enough to prevent additional harm occurring through crowd panic. I see no evidence at all of any thought, let alone planning, having been given to this.
When the (now-larger) peak hour commuter trains disgorge into an already crowded station, there are already occasions when there are simply too many people on the station for comfort – and I have seen tempers fray as passengers compete to arrive/leave. If an incident caused panic during this time, there is only one narrow, cluttered way out, through the ticket hall – apart from jumping down onto the tracks, which is surely not sensible for a host of reasons – which would quickly become a crush point.
I am moved to point this out to the HSE, there being, according to Ely Station staff, no point in complaining to the operating company.
But it might be better coming from you, assuming that other constituents feel as I do?
Then 1,976,134 visits might be made through the station more safely, as well as more comfortably in 2015!

Walk with us

SIXTEEN members of Ely Walking Group, together with 4 well behaved dogs, enjoyed a 6 1/2 mile walk in the winter sunshine.
Starting at a frosty Santon Downham, on the Norfolk/Suffolk border, they then used paths along the Little Ouse River, through Thetford Warren forest and stopped halfway at High Lodge in the forest for a hot drink.
Revived, they followed paths to the outskirts of Brandon and there they turned and made their way back to Santon Downham.
The Group are celebrating their 30th anniversary this year and their proud boast is that it's never cost their members a penny!
The next walk is Sutton on Sunday 8th February and the leaders are Peter & Trish 01353 777626

COUNCIL TAX

Planned council tax freeze for local residents

COUNCIL LEADER: James Palmer

JORDAN DAY
JordanDayCN

EAST Cambridgeshire District Council is proposing to freeze council tax for all residents this year.

The authority says it will be unveiling a balanced budget for both 2015/16 and 2016/17 which will include a proposed council tax freeze.

Council leader James Palmer said: "In 2014, we made a number of tough but necessary decisions to create not just a new organisation but a new council.

"As members, we have seen the challenges of the future and the forecasts of how the Government funding will continue to fall. This is why we have driven the process to discuss and tackle the challenges we all face.

"We have streamlined the structure of the authority to maximise the talents of staff and create a can do attitude, we have started the process of reducing the number of councillors and we have looked at working with others to get best value for money.

"All this hard work has ensured we are able to present a balanced budget not just for this year but we also estimate we'll be able to balance our budget the year after too."

He added: "This is a fantastic achievement – it means we are able to freeze our portion of the council tax bill for 2015/16.

"At a time when many people are striving to make every penny of their budget count – we feel it is only right that we do our bit to help."

The proposed freeze will be decided at full council next month.

DEVELOPMENT

No permission

PHARMACY bosses have had to submit retrospective plans after starting work in Littleport without the relevant planning permission.

Alchemy Pharmaceutical Limited used to operate out of the town's St George's Medical Centre but was given just a few days notice to leave the practice on September 10 last year – much to the horror of patients.

The firm has since started work on creating a new pharmacy at 2, Parsons Lane, however now it has had to apply to the district council for retrospective planning permission for the development.

The final say lies with the council. To have your say, visit www.eastcambs.gov.uk.

COMMUNITY

‘Appalling’ rubbish is spoiling city gateway

JORDAN DAY
JordanDayCN

LITTER is ‘spoiling’ the appearance of one of the main entrances into Ely – and community leaders are calling for action to be taken.

Numerous residents have complained to Ely News about the amount of rubbish in the Station Road area of the city, particularly around the underpass, in recent weeks.

Ely’s Mayor, Cllr Lis Every, says she has also had people complaining to her.

Keeping the land around the underpass tidy is the responsibility of Abellio Greater Anglia, although residents say a significant amount of the litter comes from the Tesco store and car park.

Cllr Every said: “This area is one of the main entrances into Ely and the amount of litter in and around the underpass is certainly spoiling its appearance, both for residents and for visitors.

“Several people have complained about the amount of litter in the Station Road area to me recently so something certainly needs to be done.

LITTER: Community leaders are calling for the Station Road area of Ely to be kept tidier

“It’s really important that all areas of our beautiful city, and in particular a main entrance area like this, are kept tidy.”

District councillor for that part of Ely, Richard Hobbs, described the state of the underpass area as “appalling” and said he too had received complaints.

A spokeswoman for Abellio Greater Anglia said “We are aware of the problem of litter being thrown from cars or blown onto the bank and we have reported this to our mobile cleaning team for their attention.

“Keeping station areas clean and tidy is a high priority but the issue is further compounded by the dangers of litter picking this area as the bank is very steep, slippery underfoot and there is no pathway to protect our staff from the busy road which runs directly below.”

Speaking to Ely News on Wednesday, a spokesman for Tesco said: “We take our responsibility to be a good neighbour very seriously.

“We have cleaned up our car park today and will make sure we regularly monitor the issue going forward.”

Is there a public area that you have spotted which is in need of a tidy up, because of litter, graffiti or vandalism? If so, email the details and location to editorial@ely-news.co.uk

FELLOW STATUS: Bridget Halnan and Julia Mclean

Dedicated duo honoured as fellows

JULIA Mclean – the woman responsible for managing NHS health visitors in the Ely area – has been awarded the prestigious title of 'Fellow of the Institute of Health Visiting' (iHV). Julia manages Cambridgeshire Community Services NHS Trust's North Cambridge and Ely health visiting teams. She also played a large part in the Government's Call to Action Initiative through the recruitment of health visitors and health visitor students. The (iHV) fellow scheme recognises the professional achievement of exceptional health visitors. Bridget Halnan, infant feeding lead/ prescribing lead for health visiting, has also been made a fellow. Together, the fellows and the institute will develop the next generation of health visitors, integrate new policy and research into practice.

COURT

Councillor stole from till

JORDAN DAY
JordanDayCN

A PARISH councillor who stole approximately £2,000 from the supermarket at which she worked has avoided a jail sentence.

Hannah Poole, 23, admitted stealing between £1,700 and £2,200 from the till at Sainsbury's in Ely at Cambridge Magistrates' Court earlier this month.

Poole, of Green Lane, Christchurch, who was a parish councillor in the village, returned before the bench for sentencing this week and was made subject to a 12-month community order.

At the earlier hearing, prosecutor Delia Matthews said Sainsbury's had been unable to ascertain exactly how much Poole had stolen.

But the former Wisbech Grammar School pupil admitted stealing between £1,700 and £2,200 in the period from October 1 to November 18 last year. She also admitted possessing 0.72 grams of the drug MDMA on November 17 last year.

Mrs Matthews said Poole had worked at the store for some time and that a shortfall of £75 was found on the till. The store then ran a CCTV check on the till being used by Poole.

She told investigators that she had been making false refunds for about five weeks and had taken the cash.

Monica Lentin, defending, said Poole regretted her actions, which came about following drug issues and problems with her then boyfriend.

Poole, who was since resigned as a parish councillor, was ordered to complete 120 hours of unpaid work in the local community, and to pay £1,700 compensation to Sainsbury's, as well as £85 court costs and £60 victim surcharge.

DEVELOPMENT

Plans for Regal site re-submitted

PLANS to build new homes where an old bingo hall is set to be demolished have been re-submitted.

Developers Buckingham and Sparrow secured permission to bulldoze the derelict Regal Community Centre, in Hempfield Road, Littleport, last year.

In September, they applied to East Cambridgeshire District Council to build four new homes in the centre's place.

The proposals were later withdrawn but have now been re-submitted.

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Tim Law feels that it's all about service. 'Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 5 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done. We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole.'

Cloudy2Clear service the Cambridge, Ely, Saffron Walden, Haverhill, Royston & Newmarket areas and Tim is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Tim a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

CHARACTER: Dennis of Grunty Fen

WE have 10 copies of the beautifully illustrated book, The Authorised Guide to Grunty Fen, to be won in our competition this week.

The book is written by journalist and BBC Radio Cambridgeshire presenter Chris South, who was friends with Dennis of Grunty Fen – one of the Ely area's most loved entertainers.

Dennis, who was actually singer-songwriter Pete Sayers, died from cancer in 2005, leaving his friends and fans across the region devastated.

Speaking about the book, Mr South said: "This book is a must for all Fenatics.

"For the beginner, it will open a window onto the peculiar charms of Grunty Fen. For those of us already steeped to our welly-tops in the ways of the Fen, it will be a valuable reference book and a constant source of wonder.

"Get to know the history and ever-changing geography of Grunty Fen, learn the secrets of its architecture, people and customs, discover its economic powerhouses and its spiritual bastions, and find out what passes for social life in Grunty Fen."

To be in with the chance of winning a copy, simply answer the following question: What was Dennis of Grunty Fen's real name?

Fill in the form and send it or pop it into Ely News, 27, Market Place, Ely, CB7 4NP. Closing date for entries is Friday, February 6. The first 10 correct entries drawn from the hat will be the winners.

■ Soham Over 60's Club is holding its annual lunch and entertainment at the Walter Gidney Pavilion on Saturday, February 7. It's running from 12.30-4.30pm and tickets are £6 for members or £15.75 for non-members. Call (01353) 723491.

Witchford

■ Witchford Parish Council is holding a public meeting to discuss plans for 26 street lights to be removed. In a bid to save almost £1.7 million, Cambridgeshire County Council is removing 10 per cent of streetlights across the county.

The meeting regarding the plans for Witchford is at St Andrew's Hall, in Main Street, on Thursday, February 5 at 6pm.

KNIT AND NATTER: The group is holding a craft fair in May to raise funds for Alzheimer's Research

Help make local craft fair a success

A LOCAL knitting group is calling on stallholders to come forward to help make its charity craft fair a success.

The Knit and Natter group in Soham is holding a craft fair at the town's Ross Peers Sports Centre on Saturday, May 16 to raise funds for Alzheimer's Research. The group is looking for as many stallholders as possible to take part in the event.

The knitting group, which meets at Millbrook House, in Lode Close, every Thursday afternoon, and was set up by friends Pat Johnson and Helen Fordham, is also able to take on more members.

For information about the group or the craft fair, call Pat on (01353)722604 or Helen on (01353) 721768.

NEWS IN BRIEF

75 drink driving arrests

THE number of motorists caught drink driving in Cambridgeshire during the Christmas period fell significantly this year.

During December, 75 drivers were arrested, which is a 22 per cent reduction on the previous year's Christmas drink driving campaign when 96 arrests were made.

Inspector Mark Rogers described the figures as "extremely encouraging" and warned people who drink drive that they will eventually be caught too.

Sylhet is named best local Indian restaurant

AN Indian restaurant in Ely has scooped a prestigious award.

Sylhet, in Market Street, has been voted 'Best Indian Restaurant in Cambridgeshire' in this year's Euro Asia Curry Awards. The restaurant is owned by Zahid Ahmed, who originally started the business as a takeaway. It was soon transformed into both a takeaway and restaurant and has won numerous awards.

CHALLENGE: Andy Bassett has secured a place in this year's London Marathon

FUNDRAISING

Andy's big charity run

JORDAN DAY
JordanDayCN

AN estate agent will be swapping his office shoes for running trainers this spring to raise money for a charity close to his heart.

Andy Bassett, 30, has secured a place to run in this year's Virgin London Marathon.

Andy, who is office manager at Tucker Gardner estate agents in Ely, will not only be putting his stamina to the test but raising as much as he can for Parkinson's UK when he takes on the 26-mile challenge in April.

He said: "The reason I decided to apply for a place with the charity is down to my dad, David.

"He has lived with Parkinson's for over 10 years now and has always hoped that with better research a cure may be found for the condition or just better treatments.

"Parkinson's UK fund groundbreaking research into the condition and also offer support for those affected and their families."

Andy, who lives with his partner, Lisa Bird, in Fenstanton, completed the Edinburgh Marathon in 2013 and raised more than £1,000 for Leukaemia and Lymphoma Research.

He needs to raise at least £1,900 to run with Parkinson's UK and has currently raised around £340.

Andy said: "I need all the help I can get in reaching my £1,900 target so would appeal to anyone who can spare even the smallest amount to donate.

"I've run one marathon before so I kind of know what to expect. I'm excited but also a little nervous.

"I've been training for a while now and I'm currently doing nine to ten-mile runs, but will obviously gradually start to increase those as the race gets nearer.

"When I finished the Edinburgh Marathon I told myself I'd never do another one because it really was awful, but the London Marathon is one of those things I feel I just need to tick off my bucket list, so I'm delighted to have secured a place."

To sponsor Andy, visit www.justgiving.com/Andy-Bassett2015 or pop into Tucker Gardner on Ely's Market Place.

CRIME

Offenders and their victims go face to face

JORDAN DAY
JordanDayCN

VICTIMS of crime in the Ely area will soon be able to request to meet their offender.

Cambridgeshire Constabulary and the county's police and crime commissioner (PCC), Sir Graham Bright, have pledged to work in partnership with other agencies to develop restorative justice in the county.

Such meetings have been proven to help repair the harm caused by the crime by allowing the victim to explain to the offender the impact of their actions. It also enables the victim to understand why the offender behaved the way they did.

The move has seen Sir Graham appoint a not-for-profit 'Community Interest Company Restorative Solutions' as a delivery partner to provide advice and expertise in the early days.

PCC: Sir Graham Bright

The Ministry of Justice has provided all PCCs with an initial two years' funding, as part of the Victims' Services Grant, to facilitate victim-initiated restorative justice.

Sir Graham said: "This work follows hot on the heels of the launch of our police-led Victims' Hub and we expect the victim care co-ordinators will be instrumental in explaining to victims what is now available."

Deputy Chief Constable Alec Wood says restorative justice can make a "real difference" to the lives of those who choose to get involved.

He said: "The evidence is clear that victims of crime who take part in restorative conferences are more likely to be able to move on from the crime committed against them. Offenders are less likely to offend again – so it's a win-win situation."

Sir Graham will be launching 'Developing Restorative Justice in Cambridgeshire' at a conference on Monday, February 9.

Green party candidate's new novel

A RETIRED educationist and technologist has written a new novel.

Clive Semmens, who is the Green party candidate for South East Cambridgeshire in this year's General Election, started writing Pawns in the late 1970s, but stopped when he started a family.

The father-of-two, who lives with his wife, Grace, in New Barns Avenue, Ely, came back to the book around four years ago and it is now about to be published.

He says Pawns is about life, love, death, surviving, and the randomness of who gets dealt what hand in the game of life.

The book will soon be available at both Toppings and Burrows bookshops in Ely.

Could you offer support?

A SCHEME which sees local business people helping budding entrepreneurs to fulfil their dreams is now in its second year.

The Ely Business Mentoring Scheme is a partnership involving the Ely Cathedral Business Group, Ely Chamber of Commerce and Ely College Sixth-Form.

Over the last 12 months, a dozen students have been mentored by 12 local business people – and now 26 new students will benefit from the programme. Areas covered include CV writing, time management and mock interviews.

Ely's Mayor, Lis Every, co-ordinator of the scheme, said: "A very effective partnership has been formed and we are aiming to grow the scheme, as well as increasing the regular contacts students have with our local businesses."

Businesspeople who want to get involved should email elisabethevery@hotmail.com.

BOARDED UP: The Red Lion closed earlier this month

Red Lion goes on the market

A PUB which closed earlier this month has now gone on the market.

The freehold of the Red Lion in High Street, Soham, is for sale with a price tag of £400,000.

As previously reported, Ken Oliver, who ran the pub for around seven years, closed its doors on January 7.

In a statement on the pub's Facebook page, he said: "So goodbye Red Lion. May someone come along and give you that refurb you need and bring you years of more trading, I did my best."

In a listing on Daltonsbusiness.com, it says: "The sale comprises of a detached public house and function room, a four-bedroom apartment, a separate restaurant and a large car parking facility.

"The business would suit an entrepreneur with the drive and energy to help this business reach its full potential."

Firm marks 50 years in business

FAMILY-RUN firm Potter Logistics is celebrating its 50th anniversary this year.

In 1965, Derrick Potter, executive chairman, started in business with one lorry and great ambitions.

Fifty years later, Potter Logistics now operates from eight distribution centres, including one in Queen Adelaide Way, Ely, and rail freight terminals, employing more than 300 staff.

The company provides specialist logistics solutions focusing on the chemical, agricultural, pharmaceutical and food industries. Among the firm's other distribution centres are those in Droitwich, Ripon, Selby and York.

The Yorkshire-headquartered business has seen significant organic growth over the years along with several acquisitions and joint ventures in the logistics, property and material recycling sectors.

"I started Potter Logistics with a vision of a 'friendly and can do attitude' transport and distribution business," said Mr Potter.

He added: "This has now become a reality and the scope of our services has expanded over the years to establish a high quality and professional logistics company that has not forgotten its original ethos."

Matthew Lamb, managing director, said: "We will be marking this fantastic event throughout the year, with special changes to our vehicle livery, additions to our fleet, with new Mercedes Benz Antos vehicles, and with staff and customer festivities that will culminate in September with a company celebration at Doncaster race course."

The Wedding Guide

PERFECT DAY: Paddocks House is the ideal venue for wedding day bliss

Super wedding competition will make you swoon

ADVERTISING FEATURE

THE House Collection, owners of the exclusive Paddocks House and Poets House hotels – both sought-after wedding venues – is offering one lucky couple a great opportunity to make their wedding stand out from the crowd.

Imagine how impressed your guests would be, on your big day, to be presented with an exclusive "signature" cocktail, designed specially for the occasion. And just think what a great start to your "happily ever after" it would be, to have a spouse who was a skilled, trained maker of your favourite cocktail...

Well if you enter our competition, this could be you!

All you need to do to enter is describe what ingredients would be in your ideal cocktail.

The fabulous prize will see one lucky bride and groom-to-be given a warm welcome at their choice of either Poets House, Ely, or Paddocks House, near Newmarket, to spend an hour and a half with the hotel's head barman and expert mixologist Matt Saunders helping you create your special cocktail for the big day. He'll also share some of his best cocktail-creating tips with you (including his amazing signature dessert cocktails).

So if you want to start your married life with an exciting new skill, send your names, a contact address/email/phone number and a description of your ideal cocktail to: Cocktail competition, Ely News, 27 Market Place, Ely, CB7 4NP.

CHEERS! You could be designing your own cocktail

Entries must be received by February 16, 2015, and entrants must be available on a Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday before April 30, 2015, to take up their session (subject to availability).

You do not need to have booked your wedding at Paddocks or Poets House in order to enter.

Good luck, and... cheers!

The Wedding Guide

YOU WEAR IT WELL: If you choose the right size!

Pick what works for

WHEN starting the hunt for the perfect wedding dress, brides-to-be can run a gamut of emotions. Some might simply be excited at the prospect of trying on a huge selection of glamorous gowns, others might very well be a bit daunted by the pressure of finding the perfect frock.

We can't promise to find your dream dress for you, but this quick lowdown of your options might help you clarify your choices. Our top tip is to make sure you take someone that you love and trust (no, probably, NOT your husband- or wife-to-be, though) – a mother, sister or very truthful friend, to help you try on possible choices. Honestly and helpful advice are invaluable!

■ From opposite page.

If you've always pictured yourself in a very specific style and colour of wedding dress, try not to be too hung up on the vision in your head. Sometimes you can try on a dress that – in theory – is ideal, only to find that it actually doesn't suit you as well as you'd hoped. Similarly, don't reject any options without trying them. Take the advice of shop assistants and friends and family: be brave, give everything a try – you never know!

Traditional wedding dress (or "gown" as the fancier bridal boutiques call them) styles include everything from ballgown shapes to empire lines, sleek and elegant columns or frothy a-lines and fishtails. Shorter options include tea length or even 60s-style mini dresses.

Sleeves can be short, long, lacy or non-existent, and the plethora of neckline options include asymmetrical, bateau, halter-neck, off-the-shoulder, scoop neck, spaghetti strap, square, strapless, sweetheart and v-neck.

Don't forget that it isn't obligatory to marry in white or cream! Other colours can look lovely, and some savvy bridges save money and still look fabulous by opting for a "bridesmaid" dress in their favourite colour.

Whatever you choose, make sure you allow plenty of time for adjustments, so that you have the perfect match, fit, style and colour to make you look your very best on your big day (blushing optional). Match your flowers and accessories to your chosen colour scheme and style, and make sure you get loads of photographs too!

Once the initial excitement and engagement celebrations are over, you will probably be keen to start planning your big day. Here are some suggestions that, while not infallible or comprehensive, may be helpful to you in making the arrangements that will make your special occasion run smoothly.

Set the date
The key decision!

Decide a budget
Be realistic! Bankruptcy is not the best way to start married life...

Count your guests
This will affect what size of venue you need to book, catering requirements etc.

Find a venue
This is where the fun starts! You'll need a ceremony venue (which can be a church, registry office, or other licensed venue such as a hotel or other venue). Your local registry office can provide you with a list of licensed venues in your area. If you're having a wedding reception afterwards, you might want to pick a different location for this, or pick a venue where you can combine both. Also consider party food provision, entertainment, music, decoration... and what venue would look perfect as the backdrop for your just-married pictures.

Choose your helpers
Bridesmaids, matrons of honour, best man, page boys, someone to "give away" the bride, ushers: these are all optional, but non-compulsory choices. Remember, the more helpers you pick, the more clothing, flowers and arrangement options you will need to organise!

Book a photographer, wedding car, florist
Make the arrangements in lots of time.

Buy "The Dress"
Many wedding dresses need a four to six month lead time for alterations.

Book the honeymoon
Not an afterthought!

Don't forget other details like ordering and sending out wedding invitations, wedding cake, rings, a gift list, thank you presents, seating plans, hen and stag nights or weekends and wedding speeches.

Most importantly, though, relax and enjoy your very special day. Congratulations!

HAPPIEST DAY: Be sure you've made the calls in good time to enjoy the occasion

This week Nick Bush of Tucker Gardner in Ely explains to his wife – and to us – what it really is that estate agents do...

Agent's blog

All watched a TV programme with my wife recently where the presenter was keen to impress on us that you do not need an estate agent to sell your home, and can save a lot of money not using one.

Having worked in the industry for 25 years, ensuring that the sale of clients' homes progressed smoothly and with minimal stress, naturally I was aghast at this suggestion. It was even more alarming when my wife asked: 'Well what do you do?", bearing in mind that we have been married for 19 years of my career!

It struck me therefore that if my wife doesn't know – after all this time living with an estate agent – then it would be fair to assume that many buyers and sellers wouldn't really know either.

With this in mind I sat my wife down and took her through the house selling and buying process from the agent's point of view, explaining the care we take to ensure that the property is priced correctly, the time we spend taking photographs and preparing marketing material, the delicate negotiations we undertake before agreeing a sale and the many hours spent liaising with buyers, sellers and solicitors before reaching exchange of contracts. Moving is considered to be one of the most stressful events in life, so the support we offer throughout the process is invaluable.

I explained to my wife that all of these elements are hugely important parts of the moving process that we need to give attention to, and are among many of the reasons why I have late nights in the office and calls to deal with outside of office hours.

Whilst I appreciate this is a conversation we should have had some years ago, my wife does now appreciate the role and value of an estate agent (and her husband) and does, I am pleased to say, agree that the moving process without one would be "challenging" to say the least.

Your Guide to Moving Home

Moving home can be a complicated business and in the hectic run up to the big day it is all too easy to forget something vital. The team offers their readers this handy checklist to help avoid any major pitfalls. We suggest you tick them off as you go....

1 4-2 WEEKS TO GO:

- ❑ Packing – start packing and sorting through your belongings. Now is a good time to de-clutter and pack items rarely used. Make sure you have plenty of sturdy boxes, bubble wrap and sticky tape.
- ❑ Removal companies – get estimates from removal companies, checking that comprehensive insurance cover is available against damage or loss. Is there a packing and unpacking service? Confirm the date of your move with the firm you have chosen.
- ❑ Insurance – check on your home contents insurance policies to ensure that you are covered for the move, and covered at your new address.
- ❑ Utilities – make arrangements for your gas and electricity meters (plus water meters where relevant) to be read and all your appliances to be disconnected on the day of your move. Arrange to take over gas and electricity at your new address, and make sure that all appliances will be properly fitted, plumbed or connected.
- ❑ Telecommunications – Notify your telephone and broadband provider and ask them to make the necessary arrangements for a final account at your present address, and for taking over or installing telephone and broadband facilities at your new home.
- ❑ Post – Look into re-directing your post for a few months to make sure you receive all relevant correspondence.
- ❑ Children – Look into the possibility of your children, especially young children, staying with family or friends on the day of the move.
- ❑ Pets – Make arrangements for any pets to be booked into a cattery or kennels if required. Having your pets microchipped is a good idea and if already microchipped, have the address changed to your new one. Your vet can advise on this.

Change of address – tell companies and organisations that you are moving!

3 1 WEEK TO GO:

- ❑ Delivery address – change delivery address of your Cambridge News, milk, groceries and fuel to your new address as appropriate.
- ❑ Laundry – do any last minute laundry that you can – have you arranged for a plumber to disconnect your washing machine correctly?
- ❑ Kitchen cupboards – go through your kitchen cupboards and throw out anything not in date. Also check that all jars and bottles are correctly sealed before packing.
- ❑ Fridges / Freezers – empty and clean out in preparation for moving. If you are moving a freezer and its contents, turn it up to maximum for a couple of days before you move.
- ❑ Valuables / documents – put these in safe place for moving day

4 2-1 DAYS TO GO:

- ❑ Packing – pack a bag for overnight essentials and toiletries and finish all remaining packing into boxes. Remember to label which room each box is destined for.
- ❑ Snack box – pack a box for the kitchen to include essentials like tea, coffee and sugar, as well as the kettle and mugs! Also include other snacks as necessary.
- ❑ Dismantle and disconnect – take down curtains, fixtures and fittings and disconnect white goods ready for transport.
- ❑ Outdoor items – make sure that these are stacked together and ready to be moved.
- ❑ Mobile – place your mobile on charge the night before moving and ensure that all relevant people have your number.

5 ON MOVING DAY:

AT YOUR OLD ADDRESS:

- ❑ Strip beds and pack bedding and nightclothes.
- ❑ Finish packing toiletries box.
- ❑ Direct removal firm personnel or friends helping you move as to what needs to be done.
- ❑ Turn off electric appliances.
- ❑ Disconnect cooker.
- ❑ Turn off boiler / central heating.
- ❑ Turn off water.
- ❑ Read gas meter.
- ❑ Read electricity meter.
- ❑ Secure all windows.
- ❑ Lock all doors.
- ❑ Make final checks and leave key as arranged with new owners.

AT YOUR NEW HOME:

- ❑ Open up & have a look around the new house.
- ❑ Locate fuse box, gas and electric meter and stop cock for reference.
- ❑ Take readings on gas, electric and water meters as appropriate.
- ❑ Organise the direction of boxes to appropriate rooms.
- ❑ Check the van after all is unloaded.
- ❑ Make the beds up for the evening.
- ❑ Sit down and relax – unpack the other boxes the next day.

Katherine takes her tour to Cambridge

Mezzo soprano and Welsh sweetheart Katherine Jenkins is bringing her Home Sweet Home tour to Cambridge Corn Exchange.

Prices start at £57.50 and rise to £137.50 which includes a meet, greet and photo opportunity with the singer, a welcome glass of sparkling wine and signed photo.

The 34-year-old Classical Brit Award winner will be performing numbers off her latest album – Home Sweet Home, which Classic FM said sees "a return to more traditionally classical repertoire" – as well as all the old favourites.

There'll be support from Welsh West End actor and singer John Owen-Jones.

■ Cambridge Corn Exchange, Wednesday, February 11 at 7.30pm. Tickets £57.50-£137.50 from (01223) 357851 / cornex.co.uk.

ROUND UP

- Green Mind Gig presents King Charles, The Portland Arms, Cambridge, Monday, February 9 at 7.30pm. Tickets £12 from wegottickets.com/greenmind.

West London born singer-songwriter King Charles – aka Charles Costa – is rather dashing. Having recently lopped off his trademark dreadlocks, he's looking even more ruggishly New Romantic than usual, just in time for his new tour.

Classically trained but something of a university drop out (he managed a year at Durham, but got distracted by the need to play music), Charles went on to support Mumford & Sons while they toured America, as well as Laura Marling and Noah and the Whale.

Currently working on his new album – as yet nameless – he'll hopefully be sharing a few new tracks on his Portland Arms visit.

- False Lights (Feat. Sam Carter and Jim Moray), Cambridge Junction, Monday, February 9 at 8pm. Tickets £11 from (01223) 511511 / junction.co.uk.

BBC 2 Folk Award winners and Cambridge Folk Festival favourites Sam Carter and Jim Moray got a bit tipsy down the pub one night late in 2013 and decided to form a folk rock group together, as you do. They recruited Nick Cooke from the Kate Rusby band on melodeon, Tom Moore from Moore, Moss Rutter on violin, Jon Thorne from Lamb on bass, and drummer Sam Nadel.

Now they're celebrating the release of their first album, Salvor and going out on tour, including a stop at Cambridge Junction.

A record packed with "folk music you can jump to" it was recorded in a log cabin in Lincolnshire and mainly consists of traditional English folk songs – but with a few twists. This is no genial folk group that sits in the corner of a fire lit pub strumming softly to themselves, this stuff is loud.

COMEDY

Jasper Carrott & Alistair McGowan, Cambridge Corn Exchange, Wednesday, February 18 at 8pm. Tickets £22-£27.50 from (01223) 357851 / cornex.co.uk.

Twice as nice

Two comedians, one show, shared billing – the barbs are going to be out, right?

Apparently Jasper Carrott and Alistair McGowan think it's going to be totally fine with no nasty competition sneaking in. The pair are bringing their joint headline show to Cambridge Corn Exchange, and actually appear to be rather into the idea.

Carrott said: "It's an exciting opportunity to work with an artist I've admired for many years, I just hope he's not TOO funny!"

McGowan said: "Jasper was the first comic I ever saw performing 'live' when I was a teenager so it's a real thrill to be working in tandem with him."

What doesn't make sense is the fact that surely these two are entertaining enough to pack out a theatre in their own rights?

Never mind, it's a good 2-4-1 deal at least.

Expect a slew of comedic anecdotes from stand-up Carrott (Robert Norman Davis OBE), who's now approaching his 70th birthday but still going strong. Probably best known for writing numerous ditties on his hometown of Birmingham and a string of BBC shows, we appreciate him most for producing Dawn in The Office, played by his daughter Lucy Davis.

What doesn't make sense is the fact that surely these two are entertaining enough to pack out a theatre in their own rights?

McGowan will of course be sharing his best impressions, of which there are now too many to list.

The 50-year-old has been collecting a cache of voices since starting out on Spitting Image before going onto make The Big Impression with then love Ronnie Ancona, the pair of them immortalising themselves as Posh and Becks.

In recent years he's been honing his theatre skills, starring in The Mikado, Little Shop of Horrors and Pygmalion.

YOUTH THEATRE

For information about how you or your child can get involved, email admin@nationalyouthartstrust.org.uk or visit www.nationalyouthartstrust.org.uk.

YOUTH THEATRE: Young people aged 13-19 are invited to audition for the new group in Ely. Above: Fiona Laird

Youth theatre group for Ely

A NEW youth theatre group is launching in Ely – giving more young people in East Cambridgeshire the chance to tread the boards.

The National Youth Arts Trust (NYAT) has announced that its first Youth Theatre Company will be forming in Ely next month.

The trust is inviting students from four of the main schools around Ely to audition to be part of the new group.

Students between the ages of 13-19 and studying at either Ely College, Witchford Village College, King's Ely or Soham Village College will be eligible to audition.

Also eligible are students who previously studied at one of the above schools and who are in the age bracket.

The youth theatre company will be run by experienced theatre practitioners and offers professional training in drama and acting techniques and mentoring from industry professionals.

Workshops will be split by age groups and held weekly on Saturday afternoons and will cover a range of skills in vocal work, script work, devising, confidence building, team-work and improvisation; helping the participants explore their creative potential in drama.

There will also be the opportunity to create small performances for the local community using the skills and training learnt during the workshops.

Workshops will be heavily subsidised, so costs incurred to the workshop participants is kept as low as possible.

Actor Hugh Bonneville, who is a patron of the NYAT, said: "In the current climate, an increasing number of young people do not benefit from an education in the performing arts, nor from the opportunities for vocational training.

"The NYAT, of which I am proud to be a patron, has been established to play a part in addressing this issue head-on."

The youth theatre company will be run by experienced practitioners and offer professional training in drama and acting techniques

The NYAT was founded in 2013 by award-winning theatre director Fiona Laird, to address the current and on-going crisis in the funding of arts education.

Fiona is originally from Ely and is thrilled to be establishing the trust's first youth theatre company in her home city.

For information about how you or your child can get involved, email admin@nationalyouthartstrust.org.uk or visit www.nationalyouthartstrust.org.uk.

AMATEUR DRAMATICS

Ely Amateur Dramatic Society to stage The Vicar of Dibley

FANS of classic TV comedy are in for a treat when the Ely Amateur Dramatic Society performs The Vicar of Dibley.

The talented troop are now busy rehearsing for the play, which is adapted from the original TV series by Richard Curtis and Paul Mayhew-Archer.

Samantha Gallop takes on the role of the female vicar thrust into a small and slightly bonkers community and its cast of marginally unhinged characters, with Lisa Bushell, Graham Stark, Steve Tittensor, Tony Ransome, Richard Dodd, Peter Clyne, Susan Howell and Chris Evans playing the mildly demented villagers.

Director, Susan Harrison, said: "The whole cast is superb and together they bring the essence of the parish of Dibley to life with wit, warmth and a great deal of joy."

Performances are at Ely College's Needhams Hall from February 18 to February 21 at 7.30pm each night. Tickets are £8 and are available from Burrows Bookshop in Ely's High Street Passage, or by calling (01353) 669759.

The Vicar of Dibley, Ely College's Needhams Hall, Wednesday February 18 to Saturday February 21 at 7.30pm. Tickets £8. Call (01353) 669759.

CLOSER TO HOME

- DANCE the afternoon away in Prickwillow on Sunday, February 1.
Chris Booth is hosting a tea dance at the Hiam Sports and Social Club, in Putney Hill Road, from 2-5pm.
On Saturday, February 7 there is also a country line dance at the club with Paul Bailey.
For information, call (01353) 688269 or visit www.hiam.org.uk.

- REAL ale lovers can slake their thirsts to their hearts content in Ely this weekend.
The annual Elysian Winter Beer Festival is being held at The Maltings, in Ship Lane, on Friday, January 30 and Saturday, January 31.
The event is now in its sixth year and is organised by Ely CAMRA.
Doors will be open from 10.30am-10pm on Friday and from 11am-8pm on Saturday.
Admission is £1 or free for CAMRA members. Visit www.ely-camra.org.uk for more details.

- IRISH and country music sensation Pat Jordan and the Finian's Rainbow will be delighting the crowds in Soham next month.
They are performing at The Brook, in Brook Street, on Saturday, February 7.
The show starts at 9pm, although food will be served from 7pm onwards. Tickets are £15.
On Friday, February 13, Irish and country musician Kenny Paul is also performing at the venue.
Tickets for the show, which also starts at 9pm, are £12.50.
For more information, call (01353) 721748 or visit www.brookentertainment.co.uk.

- TOPPINGS and Company Booksellers of Ely's all-year round literary festival continues with a visit from television presenter Tessa Dunlop and wildlife filmmaker Martin Hayward Smith next week.
Martin was commissioned to make a film about hares in his local Norfolk countryside, and in the process he created 'My Year with Hares' – a collection of photographs and accounts of the hare's most private and almost unseen moments.
He will be talking about the book at the bookshop, in High Street, on Monday, February 2 at 7.30pm. Tickets are £5.
On Wednesday, February 4 Tessa will be speaking about 'The Bletchley Girls' at the Old Palace, on Palace Green.
In this fascinating new account, she adds to the understanding of the sheer scale and importance of the work undertaken at Bletchley Park during the Second World War.
Her talk starts at 7.30pm and tickets are £6.
Call (01353) 645005 or visit www.toppingbooks.co.uk for more information about either event.

How tsunami taught me that death is not the end

Ten years ago, Simon Parr was on a beach in Phuket when the devastating Boxing Day tsunami hit. He managed to cheat death by climbing trees – and, he tells Emma Higginbotham, it's changed the way he sees the world.

DEVASTATION: The beach in Phuket after the waves hit, above. Left: Simon with the tree that saved his life

BOXING Day 2004. Clinging to a thorny tree, the debris-strewn flood waters swirling menacingly around him, Simon Parr knew his time was running out.

He'd just witnessed two people lose their lives to the powerful waves that were battering this once idyllic Thai beach. And, watching in horror as a colossal wall of water careered towards him, realised that he'd almost certainly be next.

"I'm thinking 'What is this, the end of the world?'" recalls Simon, shaking his head. "It was just like Armageddon."

More than 200,000 people were killed in the disaster. But Simon survived to tell the tale – and, he says, it's given him a rather different outlook on life.

The story began when Simon, a builder, bought the 17th century cottage in Cottenham that's now his home. It needed a lot of work, so he decided to go travelling before beginning the renovations. Looking for something different to do, he decided to have a crack at becoming a scuba diving instructor and, in October 2004, headed to Phuket in Thailand to start training; by December he was a qualified dive master.

"Boxing Day was my first day off for 10 days, which is a lot of diving, so we went out for a few bevvies in the evening," recalls Simon, 52. "Then the next day I woke up and I thought 'It feels like the bed's shaking. I've drunk too much! I know what I need: a dip in the ocean'."

He wandered down to beautiful Kata Beach, "and when I got there I was looking out to sea thinking 'This is weird: the sea's gone way, way out'. I'd never, ever seen it like that." He began to walk out towards where the sea should be, "just totally puzzled, really. Obviously I'd had a drink as well, so there was probably a bit of that still swirling round, although I soon sobered up . . ."

Suddenly, a shallow yet powerful wave began speeding across the sand. "It was just rushing past my ankles, really strong and extraordinarily fast. I still had no idea what was going on, I just thought 'Crikey, I could get knocked over here'." He turned and began to run back to the beach, "then all of a sudden a bigger wave came and knocked me down, boom, really hard."

Simon scrambled back up and carried on running but, as he did, he watched in terror as a long-tail boat was flung into the air by the ferocious wave, "and there's a guy running in front of me, and this anchor comes flying past me and just takes this guy straight out. It was awful.

"Then one of these boats is up on the wave and it's coming right at me with the propeller spinning round. I dived out of the way, otherwise I knew I'd get shredded. Immediately I knew I was in a life-or-death situation. There was no question about it."

Just as he reached the shoreline, the water began rushing backwards again, "and I saw this old, frail guy getting drawn away from the beach. My instinct was to run, but something inside me said 'You can't just leave him like that'.

"So I grabbed hold of him and started trying to drag him up the beach, but the water was rushing back so fast that all I could do was stand, wedged into the sand, and hold on to him while we're both being dragged back in towards the sea. Then to the left of me all of a sudden I'm seeing a big wave, coming along the beach sideways, and every single parasol and sunbed along that beach was tumbling around, like it's in a washing machine. All this debris was just coming towards us, then bang, it's hit us." The wave separated the pair, "and then there's another wave coming in the other way."

Simon and the elderly man were scooped up by the crashing water, which began sweeping them inland. "I spun round and went feet first, because I'm starting to go really quickly towards the trees. I can see this guy going headfirst, and I'm shouting 'Mind your head!' But he just went smack into a tree headfirst, and disappeared under the water."

There was nothing Simon could do; he was being pushed too hard into the trees himself, "like a pinball in a pinball machine. And then I'm thinking 'Oh my God', because I can see all of the water going into this small building. The door's open, and the water's rushing in, and I'm going into that building, and I can't do anything except try to grab hold of trees and stop myself."

Fortunately, Simon was swept around the building, "and I managed to grab hold of a small tree and hang on to that." As if the situation wasn't bad enough, the tree was covered with thorns, "so I'm climbing up and getting cuts as I go, and there's these big red ants biting me, literally stuck in my skin. I'm like 'I can't believe this! Am I dreaming?'"

But far worse was to come. As Simon clung to the tree, he became aware of a terrible noise: "It was a growly, rumbling sound, and I looked out to sea – and there is the biggest wave I've ever seen, a big wall of water, coming towards me. I'm like 'What is this?', just bemused.

"Then this wave hits, and starts breaking over the top of the building, and the whole building just collapses on to the tree, at which point I said 'I'm dead'. The whole tree went under the water. I was scared to death."

It was now that Simon's diving training came in useful: "I opened my eyes under the water, and I can see and feel bits of debris, and I'm starting to scrap and scrap, trying to get up to get some breath.

"Then I manage to pop up to the surface and take a big gulp of air, and there's just everything floating around: bits of boats, a car swirling around, and the water's going this way and that.

"My instinct still is 'get in a tree', so I manage to catch hold of a foam cushion, which had some flotation, grab hold of a tree, and stick this cushion in the middle of the palm tree – they're really sharp, you see – and pull myself into it. I'm just literally sitting on top of this palm tree." He's kept the cushion to this day.

Gradually the water began to subside, "and I could hear people screaming and crying. I remember seeing other people in trees, but I just wanted to get away from the sea, so as the water went down to a foot or so, I climbed down. Then the water started coming back again, so then I climbed up this other tree.

Eventually Simon climbed down and began running home to the room he was renting.

Back in his room, Simon texted his brother to let him know he was OK.

Unlike many, Simon stayed on in Thailand for another three months, helping to clear the debris. The mood, he said, was 'very sombre. A lot of people had died. It was awful.

"I was in shock for quite some time, and I was very ill afterwards, I think because I'd ingested a lot of dodgy stuff; a few of us had upset stomachs because of being in the dirty water. And a lot of people got post-traumatic stress disorder, but I just felt elated because I'd survived."

Back home in Cottenham, Simon busied himself restoring his cottage. As a builder, he'd always had back problems, "and I'd heard that Rachel Casson in the village was a sports therapist, so I made an appointment with her. I'd also heard that she did some psychic stuff, and I was vaguely interested in that, although I was a complete atheist."

He went along for a massage and, as she treated his back, Rachel mentioned that she was a medium and spiritual healer. "She said 'I've got someone here with me at the moment'. I thought 'This is mental!'", he laughs, "but she brought through what I can only say described my aunt, who'd passed away not long before. I thought 'Wow, this is weird'."

Simon continued to go to Rachel for treatment, "and she kept telling me more and more; she was bringing through my dad, and my sister, who'd committed suicide. I said 'Look, I can't dispute what you're saying, it's accurate, but I can't believe it. When you're dead you're dead'."

He then decided to test Rachel: "I said: 'Do you ever see me in a dangerous situation? Like a disaster?' And she closed her eyes and went 'I can see lots of people around you, drowning'. And I thought 'Flipping heck!' I'd never, ever mentioned the tsunami. But despite that, my logical mind was still struggling to believe it."

One day, Rachel said that the spirits would give him a sign: a tingling sensation in the back of his head, "and I thought 'Rubbish!'" he laughs. "Anyway, she says 'You're going to feel it now', and I could feel this tingling! So I went away really starting to believe there was something in it."

Gradually, Simon says he began developing his own psychic awareness, "and when I started to reflect, there are things that I didn't understand when I was younger, and now I'm wondering if it was some kind of spiritual influence." He recalls an air of loneliness that overwhelmed him just hours before he heard the news that his sister had taken her own life, and a strong feeling that he'd be in a plane that crashes into the ocean: "And one day the penny dropped: what I'd been seeing is flying somewhere in a plane, and ending up in a disastrous situation in the sea."

Simon now volunteers at the Newmarket Pioneer Centre, a Spiritualist church, and regularly attends The Arthur Findlay College, a college of Spiritualism and psychic sciences in Stansted.

What do his friends and family think? "My brother doesn't buy it at all; my mum's a bit more open to it, and the majority of my old friends probably think I'm bonkers," he grins.

But, he insists, he doesn't mind what people think of him, "because what I'm telling is my true experience. I've got nothing to gain from it. Rachel opened my mind up to something that I never believed could be true, that after you die your spirit goes on, and that's what I believe now. And I'm not perfect by any means, but I think if more people lived by the Spiritualist principles – basically 'be good to other people' – then the world would be a better place.

"A lot of people don't know what Spiritualism is. They probably think a medium is someone at a fairground with a crystal ball telling a future to someone to make money. All I want to do is tell people that there are hundreds of Spiritual National Union churches that you can go into for free, meet like-minded people and get a message. It starts to help you make sense of your life, and stops you being scared of death.

"Because for me, death is not the end."

Murketts' Stapleford site reopens after full refurbishment

MIKE SCIALOM
@cambridgedrive

THE refurbishment of Murketts' Stapleford dealership is now complete and the site is open to the public.

Jez Waskett, Murketts' Cambridge-based sales manager who runs the Stapleford premises, is delighted with the way it's turned out.

"Stapleford has just had a complete refurbishment involving new showroom tiles, new furniture, the outside has been refitted, and all the brickwork has been redone," Jez told Wheels.

"Murketts has been going for 120 years, it's one of the few family businesses left in the motor trade these days," he added. "The Stapleford site has been going for 15 years as a Vauxhall main dealer plus used cars, of which the majority are Vauxhall."

So what's on sale at Stapleford? "In now is the new Corsa in three and five-door formats, plus the Meriva, Astra, Insignia, Adam, Grand Tourer, Mokka, Antara – and the new model Astra is due later this year."

Looking forward to the new Viva?

"The Viva is a city car that will hopefully go down well in Cambridge. It's attractively priced from about £7,000 with 0 per cent finance across the range, new PCP deals – or Vauxhall finance, which gives you £2,500 off certain cars. Plus there's free insurance on certain models."

Current best seller? "The Adam is starting to come good, the Corsa of course has always been a best seller and the Mokka because people really like SUVs.

"The Adam Rocks Air is now in the showroom from £14,995, that's a 1.2 or a 1.4-litre – or the new 1.0-litre that's just coming."

What's the spec for the 1.0-litre unit please?

"The new 3-cylinder 1.0-litre direct injection turbo petrol will be on sale for the Adam and the Corsa within the next fortnight. It's the only production three-cylinder engine on the market with a balancer shaft, helping it combat noise, vibration and harshness."

Contact murketts.co.uk or (01223) 706706 for details – or, if you want to configure your own car, go to vauxhall.co.uk.

Tips on buying a used car for under £1,500

JUST because your budget is small, it doesn't mean you can't drive a stylish sports car, luxury saloon or spacious MPV, writes Matt Joy. If you're prepared to hunt around and trawl through the classifieds you can get a used bargain, and potentially something a little more interesting than a humble runabout. Here's a small selection of what is possible for just £1,000:

SUPERMINI – FORD FIESTA
Of course there's stacks of choice at this end of the market as smaller cars tend to be cheaper than larger ones – although not always. You'll find all of the most popular models; Vauxhall Corsa, Renault Clio and plenty of Ford Fiestas. We found a nice 2002 example of the previous generation model with air conditioning and a modest 92,000 miles for £1,000.

FAMILY HATCH – HONDA CIVIC
Move up a size and you still should have no trouble finding what you're after. As well as the usual suspects from Ford and Vauxhall, consider something like the Honda Civic. They have an excellent reputation for reliability and are practical too. For £999 we found a 2003 Civic 1.6i SE Executive with plenty of toys, 11 months MOT and 100,000 miles; for a Honda that's only just run in!
MPV – SEAT ALHAMBRA
Now we're getting to the larger cars, it's important to remember that they will inevitably have a higher mileage, but condition is arguably more important; a well-maintained car with fewer owners and higher miles is better than a thrashed low-mileage example.

USED LEXUS: Tons of bucks for your bang is always a possibility when buying an older vehicle

Ford and Volkswagen collaborated on the Galaxy/Sharan MPV in the 1990s but there was a often-overlooked Seat version too. We found a 2000 Alhambra with the ideal 1.9 TDi engine, air conditioning, 179,000 miles and 10 months MOT for £995.

CONVERTIBLE – AUDI CABRIOLET
If you're looking for style on a budget, it's important to choose something that's aged well, which is where the Audi Convertible comes in. Even though the earliest examples are now over 20 years old, it stayed on sale until 2000 and still looks the part; even Princess Diana had one. You'll need to search and this 1.8-litre example we found is no fireball, but it has the essential alloy wheels, part leather seats and 133,000 miles for £995.

LUXURY SALOON – LEXUS LS
It might seem a nonsense that you can get a big luxury saloon for £1,000 but the truth is that cars like these depreciate more than any other, which is why those 15 years old or more are remarkably cheap. We found a couple of Mercedes-Benz S-Class and half a dozen BMW 7 Series but we'd plump for the Lexus LS. We found a 1999 example with an admittedly-high 200,000 miles on it, but your £995 gets you a smooth V8 engine, sat-nav, electric seats, climate control and an interior that looks like new.

SPORTS CAR – PORSCHE 928
OK, so this really is a stretch but if you're prepared to be patient, haggle and get your hands dirty, then you could have a fast car on your drive. Back when it was launched in 1978, the Porsche 928 had a 4.5-litre V8 engine and could crack 140mph, while later models got even more power. The oldest examples will need some work but there are plenty of specialists out there and even today it's an eye-catching example of Porsche design. We found two examples in the classifieds for a smidgen over £1,500, so with a bit of haggling you could have a performance bargain.

Director of the Von Hügel Institute, St Edmund's College, Cambridge

St Edmund's College

Applications are invited for the position of the Director of the Von Hügel Institute (VHI) with effect from 1st October 2015.

The holder of the position will be responsible for the coordination and viability of the Institute's activities, will have direct line responsibility for the VHI research staff and will support their career development. He/she will encourage interdisciplinary studies and seminars, and aim to enhance recognition of the work of the Institute both within the University of Cambridge and in the wider academic and policy world. The post is expected to take up to 8 hours per week and to be combined with another suitable academic appointment. There will be a target stipend pro rata to a professorial salary of £13,673 (20% of point 69 on the College Salary Scale).

Applications should be submitted together with a recent CV and the names of two referees by Friday 27th February 2015, to the Master, Mr Matthew Bullock, St Edmund's College CB3 0BN. The Job Description and further particulars can be viewed and/or downloaded from College web page www.st-edmunds.cam.ac.uk or by contacting the Master's Secretary by e-mail: masters.office@st-edmunds.cam.ac.uk Tel: +44(0)1223 336122. Applications are welcome by e-mail or post. The retiring Director, Professor John Loughlin, is also available to meet potential applicants (via jl602@cam.ac.uk). The VHI web page can be found on http://www.vhi.st-edmunds.cam.ac.uk

Help us to support those who need help most.

action for children

An exciting opportunity has arisen for someone who wishes to be part of Children's Services in Cambridgeshire in the role of a Business Support Officer (BSO) level 2. The successful candidate will be taking forward Children's Services in Cambridgeshire by supporting two residential projects, Holiday Club and our Outreach Services for children and young people with disabilities.

Administrative Officer
£17,403 - £19,895 pa | Full-time, 35 hours per week
Ref. HRSS004444 | Cambridge

You will be supported and line managed by a BSO 3 in the day to day management of inputting invoices, recording data which is required for our Commissioners and Ofsted, participating in Team Meetings and be a member of our Children's Services Team in Cambridgeshire.

The role will be a busy one but you will receive ongoing training and support as well as the camaraderie which exists not only in our teams within this county but nationally too within an organisation that supports the most vulnerable and neglected children and young people throughout the UK and we've been doing so for 145 years.

You'll need to have experience of Microsoft Office, be skilled in typing with a speed of at least 35 words per minute, have good use of English Language and be willing to learn new skills.

A driver with their own vehicle to drive between projects in Cambridge and Huntingdon is not an essential requirement but would assist the ebb and flow of supporting our services.

And while you're taking Action for Children, we'll be taking action to make sure you are fulfilled, with ongoing support and training.

Action for Children. Whatever it takes. For as long as it takes.

For more information and to apply visit www.actionforchildren.org.uk/jobs quoting the reference number.

Closing date: Wednesday 11th February 2015.

Committed to quality, equality and valuing diversity, we welcome applications that reflect the cultural diversity of the communities within which we work. Registered charity no. 1097940. Company no. 4764232. Charity registered in Scotland SC038092.

SUPPORT YOUR FORCE

Health and Wellbeing Administrator
£17,361 to £20,940 per annum
Location: Kempston, Police Headquarters

A full-time opening for a great team player within a multidisciplinary team has arisen. The role has responsibility for a wide variety of administrative duties and a flexible and solutions focused approach is essential.

Applicants may not have worked within a medical setting before but they will have a strong regard for confidentiality and an ability to demonstrate how they have been able to maintain professional boundaries and manage the expectations of customers in the past.

This role is often the first point of contact for internal staff and police officers and also new recruits to the Police Force and effective communication skills are important as is self-confidence. Personal responsibility and an ability to work unsupervised at times are also necessary.

The role holder will be happy to balance different priorities and possess excellent IT skills with regard to all main Microsoft packages. Previous experience of working with databases is required as is great attention to detail and a willingness to share ideas to improve efficiency and customer service within a new team.

To be shortlisted for this role you will need to demonstrate on your application how you meet the criteria outlined in the Experience and Qualifications section of the attached role profile (online).

Applicants will need to be available for interview on:
Friday 13 February 2015.

To apply for this vacancy please visit our careers website at www.bedfordshire.police.uk

Cambridge University Hospitals (CUH) is one of the largest and best known hospitals in the country. The 'local' hospital for our community, CUH is also a leading national centre for specialist treatment: We are one of only five biomedical research centres in the UK and have a worldwide reputation as a university teaching hospital. Building on these different elements, CUH's vision is to be one of the best academic healthcare organisations in the world.

Communications Manager

Band 6: £25,783 - £34,530 p.a.

We are currently looking for an exceptional Communications Manager to support world class research here on campus. This is a high profile role, working across the Biomedical Research Campus to ensure the high-quality marketing, communications and reporting of key information across the campus.

As an experienced communications professional, you will be able to demonstrate a good understanding of healthcare research and have previous experience of developing and implementing communication strategies across multiple stakeholders. You will work across a number of key departments on campus and as such will need to be able to effectively handle a busy workload. It goes without saying that your written and verbal communication skills will be second to none.

An informal conversation/visit is highly recommended. For an informal discussion or to arrange a visit please contact: Justine Hill, PPI Officer on 01223 254619 or email: jh979@medschl.cam.ac.uk

SPEED STACKING

CONCENTRATION: Action from the speed stacking event

For more sports news go to ely-news.co.uk/sport

Fast hands at speed stacking competition

THERE was fast-paced action at the Ross Peers Sports Centre in Soham when 18 teams competed in the Witchford School Sports Partnership's speed stacking competition.

It was the first time the partnership had run a speed stacking event.

More than seven primary schools took part, with each team made up of four people.

Each member completed a number of speed stacking tasks where they had to stack and un-stack special cups in as fast a time as possible.

The scores were then added together to form a team total, with the winners being those with the quickest overall time.

Langton School, Ely, were the winning school, with their A team taking top spot.

Soham school Weatheralls saw their C team clinch runners-up spot, while Alderman Jacobs A, from Whittlesey, finished third.

Partnership manager Di Baker said: "We'll do a speed stacking event again. All the children really enjoyed it, as did the staff.

"Some of the children had received stacking cups for Christmas so they had been practising before the event.

"It's also good for those who don't like team sports such as football or rugby."

NETBALL

Koopowitz is named player of the season

CITY of Ely Netball Club celebrated the success of their under-16 squad after the team finished top of Division B in the Junior & Youth County Premier League in 2014.

The squad of 13 girls won all five of their matches, beating runners-up Rookies to top spot by just four points.

They scored 144 goals in total and conceded just 77.

Coach Beckie Mitchell congratulated the girls on their commitment and support of each other during a fantastic season.

The players voted Juliet Koopowitz (pictured right) as under-16 player of the season, and she received an engraved plate from the club to commemmorate the achievement.

The club's first team notched up another valuable victory to keep them in second place in the league, beating Bee 52s 43-30.

Ely had to battle hard in the first half but they edged into a narrow lead as the Bee 52s looked to match their scoring feats.

The second half was a different story, however, as Ely took control and romped ahead to put the game out of their opponents' reach.

The club are always on the look out for new players of all abilities.

Anyone interested in giving the sport a try should contact the club at elynetball@hotmail.co.uk.

Training sessions are currently taking place indoors at Witchford Village College. They take place every Wednesday, from 7.30pm to 9pm.

DARTS

Steve is chasing the Carrett of big time

STEVE Carrett is bidding to break into the darts big time off the back of winning the EDO England National Singles title.

The 57-year-old Little Thetford thrower clinched that crown last July and followed it up by reaching the semi-finals of the EDO Matchplay Championships.

If he had made it through to the final, Carrett (pictured right) would have faced Scott Mitchell, who won the Lakeside world title two weeks ago.

But those results convinced Carrett, who only took up the sport a decade ago, it was worth trying to make a real go of the sport.

He said: "After that a few people said 'you've got to come across to the PDC (Professional Darts Corporation)', so I thought I'd give the qualifying school a go.

"I just thought I'd see how it went and I only finished two points short of the top 128 in the world."

The PDC qualification school takes place annually and sees more than 400 players play a series of matches over a four-day period, all aiming to make it into the elite. Points are awarded for each win.

Having put himself in a good position over the first half of the gruelling tournament, Carrett lost to the Canadian champion on the third day and narrowly lost his first round game on the final day.

Not that Carrett was too downhearted about missing out.

He said: "There was only a three-dart or one-dart difference for that extra point, but for my first attempt I was more than happy with how it went because people go back year after year."

But despite failing to qualify, Carrett can still take part in PDC Challenge Tour and Pro Tour competitions if he can raise the funds to take part.

"On the Challenge Tour you play similar players who aren't in the top 128 and the Pro Tour is where you're playing the big boys," he said.

"I'm more than confident I can make it, but it's just about playing well at the right time at the right place.

"It's just about getting that lucky break, but until you're playing these type of players consistently it's difficult. If you get that break, the world is your oyster."

Carrett is searching for sponsors to help cover the cost of entering tournaments. Anyone who can help should email wofox@aol.com or call 07843 433927.

TABLE TENNIS

Martin puts Elsworth in a Spott of trouble

MARTIN Spott produced a powerful performance to help Fulbourn I see off Elsworth I in Ely & District League, Division One.

He claimed a maximum and was backed up Peter Xie, whose unconventional style also earned him a 100 per cent record in the match.

Ely I were on top form when they visited Soham Comrades I, with Liam Mohan only losing one set all evening as his side achieved a whitewash.

Ely II and Soham were all square at 3-3 after six games in their clash before the latter pulled away to triumph 7-3.

Soham's Ian Boggie beat Ashley Rowe in five, Tony Everitt beat Ju Young in three and Martin Freeland beat Andrew Maguire, also in three.

The five-set doubles went to Soham even though Young and Maguire had led Everitt and Freeland 9-4 in the fifth.

In Division Two, Fulbourn III jumped into a 5-0 lead against Impington II and kept their foot on the gas as they ended up triumphing 9-1.

Phil Hague, Sammy Hague and Dave Roitman were the men who excelled for the victors.

Countess included Rachel Foulger for the visit of Fulbourn VI in Division Three and were expecting at least two of the Fulbourn ladies to play.

However, none of these were available so Fulbourn introduced Alex and Daniel Hearne-Potton for their league debuts.

Tim Hands attended in order to guide the boys and played to make up the numbers, despite suffering from a bad back as it ended 5-5.

Resilient Soham hold on to overcome Aveley

AN impressive display from Soham Town Rangers saw them beat Aveley 2-1 at Julius Martin Lane in the Ryman League, North Division last Saturday.

The Greens made a bright start and took the lead in the 38th minute when Ryan Sharman reacted quickest to the rebound after Matty Simpson's shot had been saved.

After Soham missed a number of opportunities to score a second goal after the interval, Aveley piled on the pressure as they looked to get an equaliser.

But with 10 minutes left Rangers got a second goal when Luke Stanley squared the ball to Simpson who tapped home at the far post.

Aveley scored a consolation goal in stoppage time, denying Soham their first clean sheet of the season, but that was of little concern to boss Steve Fallon.

"We played well," said the Soham boss.

"They came at us strongly in the second half, especially in the final 25 minutes.

"We defended well and managed to hold on for the win which was thoroughly deserved."

The Cambs Invitation Cup holders then booked their place in the semi-finals of this season's competition after beating Over Sports 3-1 on Tuesday evening.

First half goals from Stanley, Scott Parris and Dan Brown proved enough to secure the win.

Over's manager Wayne Goddard is also joining Fallon's coaching staff.

Harlow and Brett go out at hands of ace Marshall

CITY of Ely pair Greg Harlow and Nicky Brett both fell victim to eventual champion Alex Marshall at the Just Retirement World Indoor Championships at Hopton on Sea.

Former world champion Harlow lost a close-fought contest 7-6, 7-5 in the semi-finals before the Scot went on clinch his sixth world crown with victory over England's Andy Thomson in the final.

Harlow was not too despondent and admitted he was pleased with the way he played.

He said: "There was nothing in it – he got one and two shots more than me each set, simple. That's how it goes.

"I bowled a few too short ones, but it is a slow carpet, you are going to do that.

"I'm happy, though, if you can ever be happy after a defeat. I enjoyed it out there.

"I laid the first set with a bowl to come and laid the second set with two bowls to come, so it was a case of fine margins.

"I played some good pressure shots, but so did he as and when needed and got them spot on."

It came after Marshall had seen off Brett 11-4, 4-14, 2-1 in the quarter-finals.

Gammon earns point for Robins

RICHARD Gammon equalised with the last kick of the game as Ely City claimed a 2-2 draw at home to Haverhill Rovers in the Thurlow Nunn League, Premier Division last Saturday.

The in-form striker secured a valuable point for the struggling Robins and although his intervention came at the last moment, both managers agreed that a draw was a fair result.

It was City who took the lead at the Unwin Ground despite a bright start by Michael Shinn's visitors.

Luke Brown opened the scoring with a well taken lob in the 33rd minute.

For more sports news go to ely-news.co.uk

Rovers responded well though and got back on terms just four minutes later with a goal from Martyn Farrant as Ely failed to clear their lines following a corner.

And the visitors took the lead just before half time when Dan Cornwell converted a 42nd-minute penalty.

City improved in the second half but were unable to make the breakthrough until the end of the game when they won a free kick.

Sam Goodge floated the ball into the penalty area, James Seymour flicked it on and Gammon was on hand to poke the ball home for a dramatic equaliser.

City manager Brady Stone was particularly pleased with his players' efforts after the break.

"It was a fair result," he said.

"Haverhill started really well but we slowly got back into the game. It was a great goal from Luke but then we gave two really sloppy goals away. That's something we've got to put right.

"In the second half we were fantastic.

"We created some good chances. It felt like a win, scoring the equaliser so late. We deserved at least a point and I'm really happy with the way we played."

City remain second from bottom in the league table, but the result has given Stone and his team renewed confidence.

The Robins will look to take that into their next game, away to Gorleston, on Saturday.
